Wow! What a great first week of school! We were able to practice Literacy Studio, explore inquiry-based science experiments, as well as focus on team building within our class. I'm so excited for this school year and I cannot wait to watch your children soar in 3rd Grade!!!

What We Did This Week:

Literacy Studio:

During reading, we practiced the routines and procedures we will use for Literacy Studio this year. We read stories that focused on kindness, being a good friend, and character development. Next week we will practice the different parts of Literacy Studio including reading to self & someone, as well as working on writing.

Math Workshop:

This week we worked on routines and procedures in math! We were able to play some fun math games together while setting up expectations for the year. Next week we will dive right into math workshop.
